NZ Financial Institution

"We do not license the business of banking per se. Financial institutions do not have to be registered banks in order to take deposits and make loans. A financial institution can conduct the business of banking without being subject to the Reserve Bank's prudential requirements for registered banks, so long as it does not use the word "bank" in its name." Alan Bollard, Governor, Reserve Bank.

Our sister company in New Zealand will assist you, or your clients to incorporate a Financial Institution and provide specialist assistance to ensure compliance with NZ Legislation.
